

Welcome to the Reception Newsletter

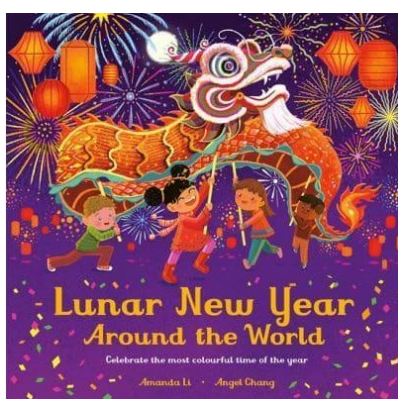

20th January 2023

It has been a week full of exploration and new experiences. With Lunar New Year being celebrated by thousands across the world this week, we have been delving into some traditions shared by East and Southern Asian communities.

Book of the Week

This weeks book of the week is a fiction text with a non-fiction twist as it is jam packed with interesting facts and information about the beliefs behind the traditions followed during Lunar New Year by different communities.

Maths

This week we have been continuing to explore the composition of number and have spoken about how we see a number (4 is a 2 and a 2 or a 3 and a 1). We have moved onto ordering number and looking at numerical patterns when counting forwards and backwards.

Please complete Week 2 of Journal 2 which is a new Red Maths No Problem book and bring back on Friday 27th January 2023.

Next Week

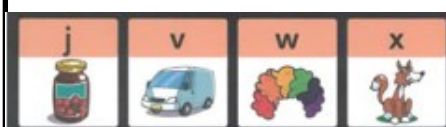

Next week we will be continuing to talk about persevering and what we can do to help us achieve something we want to do.

Literacy

Using our book of the week, Lunar New Year Around the World, we have been learning about some common traditions that people do to celebrate the special time of year.

We have then been using pictures to create sentences and create books to inform others. The children have wowed us with their engagement and interest in the topic.

Understanding the World, Expressive Arts and Design and Physical Development

Lunar New Year has captured us in so many ways from visits in school showing children some common traditions that they do and the beliefs behind them to make lanterns, Chinese dragons and having a go at our very own dragon dancing. Children have also been very interested in the traditional scribing on Lai See (red envelop gifts) and had a go at creating their own.
